Bobby Straus is an experienced and expert speaker about depression and bullying for providers of mental health services, educators, law enforcement, corporations and more. Bobby inspires and educates through his own personal experience with depression and bullying. Bobby says, "after decades of suffering from depression and coming dangerously close to losing the battle, I have made it my life's pursuit to raise awareness about what it is like to have the disease, eliminate the perception that a person can just get over it and advocate for greater research into treating and curing depression." Bobby has recently authored a book called, In Search of A Way Out, A True Story of Bullying, Depression and A Journey Toward Hope. © 2020

In addition, Bobby has spent more than thirty years working in the high stakes, high stress financial markets. From his early days trading on the American Stock Exchange to years as a professional money manager and Investment Advisor, he has survived and succeeded in one of the most intensely competitive industries in the world.

Along the way, he has been a guest on CNBC, Bloomberg Business News Radio and Fox Business Channel. He has been quoted in the Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, Fortune Magazine and Barron's. Bobby has earned a BA from New York University, an MBA from University of Denver and is a CFA Charterholder.
